Profile

1. A device profile comprises the set of attributes (services and/or features) that associate with a particular device.

2. User can choose multiple group variables depends on the device requirement. variables (labels) added as per existing attributes of a device.

3. A profile can have attributes like IP Address, MAC Address, Port number and password etc.

4. Device profiles will have only attributes and their values will be added while adding a device.

Example

