Why we need Test Group?

TEST GROUP

- Test Group will be having multiple testcases.
- It is a logical group of testcases intended to selection of testcases easier during execution of regression.
- Each test group can be part of one or multiple test suites. This makes the test groups reusable within multiple test suites, eliminating the duplicate testcases

- In this we use ADD TEST GROUP button to create new test group, enter the name of test group and clicking add will add it to the TC inventory.

- Test groups will also have ROI parameters (optional), to find the ROI on the particular test group. On providing the appropriate ROI value, charts will be developed and that can be used to identify the most affordable testgroup for automation.

- Each test groups will have multiple testcases grouped together.
